PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Support, protection, power

OUR UNION HELPS US MAKE OUR STUDENTS' LIVES BETTER AND OUR COMMUNITIES STRONGER

I can't begin to tell you how much of an honor it is to have the opportunity to serve as your president. OEA is an incredible organization for two fundamental reasons: who we are, and why we're here. We have caring, committed, qualified educators in all 88 of Ohio's counties performing in a wide variety of roles who are united in a single cause—to ensure that every single one of our students is provided a quality public education that inspires their natural curiosity, imagination and desire to learn.

Driven by the desire to foster the critical thinking, problem-solving and decision-making skills my students needed to become effective citizens in our democracy, I became a high school social studies teacher 28 years ago. I didn't go into education to help kids pass tests, but to create lifelong learners.

I wanted to make a difference, and I know you do too. That's our purpose. That's our mission. That's why I believe in you and your power to change lives and shape the future.

My desire to make a difference naturally led to my active involvement in my local union. I knew even before my first day of teaching American history at Tolles Technical Center in Plain City I would need the support of my colleagues if I had any hope of success. That's why I proudly joined the 45-member strong Tolles Education Association and soon found myself attending Labor-Management Committee meetings and advocating at the bargaining table.

As I continued my career in Worthington and through nearly three decades of activism at all levels of this organization, I have learned that it is only through our union that members are given the support and relationships to necessary to nurture our work with students. It is only through our union that we have the protection and advocacy needed to do our jobs without having to look over our shoulders. And it is only through our union that we are able to harness our collective influence and power to protect public education and improve the lives of our fellow educators and the students we serve.

Many colleagues have supported and encouraged me throughout my union journey. Wendy Nichols, my teaching mentor at Tolles, first invited me to belong to the association and provided me with opportunities to get involved in my local. Kathy Broom, who had been fired early in her marriage and teaching career simply for being pregnant and used the power of her union to successfully win her job back, helped me understand the power of collective advocacy. Suzanne Kaszar, my first OEA Labor Relations Consultant, taught me about bargaining and connected me to programs to develop my leadership skills.

So many others have made a difference for me because they recognized my leadership potential and provided opportunities for me to play an active role in serving my fellow members. It began with a simple invitation to belong to a movement that was larger than myself.

If you're new to your role as an educator or education support professional, or if you have been in the profession for a while but have not yet become a member, I invite you to belong to the OEA and to tap into the support, protection and power your union has to offer.

If you're returning as a member, I encourage you to be actively involved. Consider following the example Wendy provided to me and invite at least one colleague to join you and feel included. We're all in this together.

I'm inspired by you and all that you do every day to make our students' lives better and our communities stronger. You have challenged, nurtured and supported me throughout my union journey, and I look forward to continuing our journey together.

TOP 10 REASONS TO BELONG

Support and Relationships

Influence and Power

Protection and Advocacy

A voice at the table

There's power in numbers. Belonging to your OEA and your local Association gives you greater influence over the decisions that affect your students, your classroom, and your career. Whether you advocate for changes at your work site, speak at school board meetings, advocate for increased school funding at the state and local level, or lobby your state legislators and city/county board members, we will support you.

Increased pay and benefits

As part of your Association, you can advocate for professional pay, health care, and retirement security so a career in education is a viable profession.

Improved professional practice

Your local helps you advocate for access to high-quality professional development and increased collaboration time so you can improve your practice. Your Association (and that means you and your co-workers!) can work with the administration to develop mentoring and other support from experienced colleagues.

Nationwide community of educators

When you are a member of your local Association, you are also a member of your OEA and the National Education Association (NEA). Your Association is your way to connect with like-minded colleagues across the district, state, and nation who are working to better students' lives.

Improved working and student learning conditions at your work site

Your Association empowers educators to advocate for smaller class sizes, less standardized testing, input into the curriculum, and safe buildings, just to name a few. These working conditions mean a better learning environment for your students.

Positive change in your work site

Your Association can work with the administration as a partner and collaborate with parents and community organizations to resolve issues in your school. As an educator who works with students, you can work with the administration to solve problems together.

Enhanced rights

A collective bargaining agreement is an enforceable legal document that protects your rights. It contains a formal procedure for advancing grievances with the support of an expert (Labor Relations Consultant). Your Association will be there to offer guidance, advice, and, if necessary, legal representation.

Commitment to social justice

As a member of your Association, you join forces with fellow educators to make a difference in the social justice issues that matter most to you. Your Association can provide the training and strategies needed to help achieve equity in your schools.

Liability protection

Because the liability potential can be so serious for individuals employed by schools and other educational units, your OEA provides all eligible members with professional liability insurance through the Educators Employment Liability (EEL) Program.

Member benefits

Improve your buying power and save money with NEA's Member Benefits program that offers extensive member-only benefits and discounts.

OEA: Building strong public schools and strong member advocacy

As the Ohio Education Association (OEA) begins its 173rd year as an advocate for public education, members are working to transform schools and colleges, advocate for student-centered reforms and defend collective bargaining rights from anti-union attacks. OEA has emerged as the strongest, most consistent and most informed voice of advocacy for students, educators and public schools in Ohio. With a vision of OEA as the hallmark for excellence in education, OEA has steadily gathered allies to answer critics of public education, including some who want to dismantle Ohio's system of public schools.

Since its founding in 1847, OEA, formerly the Ohio State Teachers' Association (OSTA), has advocated on behalf of its members and for strong public schools in Ohio. But in several stages, the organization has worked through significant changes to meet new challenges.

Because Ohio's system of public schools has been so successful for so long, in many ways, Ohioans might take it for granted, but OEA doesn't.

The state's public school system faces competition for public dollars from charter schools, criticism from private school and corporate reform advocates, and a continuous struggle for funding at the state and local level.

How OEA members respond to these challenges and tell their story of tremendous achievements in public schools will determine the future of Ohio's public schools and the future of OEA.

In 1851, the OSTA set broad goals: to build a strong public sentiment for schools, to promote the adoption of a better plan of school organization, and to improve teachers and elevate the profession of teaching.

Since that time, the organization has continued these early goals, elevating public schools through sound instruction and curriculum, by standards of teacher preparation and teacher certification, and improved working conditions with a state minimum salary schedule and state teacher's retirement system.

Many teachers interested in their profession and the improvement of Ohio's schools attended the first OSTA convention to help organize the association and promote its interests.

The OSTA recognized the importance of political action to achieve better teaching and school organization and funding. The initial focus was on teachers' institutes, followed by normal schools for the professional education of teachers, both aimed at improving teaching. OSTA worked toward state support of teacher training and establishing state-funded normal schools, resulting in passage of a supporting law in 1902.

A survey in 1913 examined school conditions in Ohio, leading to a complete revision of rural education and to minimum standards of teacher preparation and changes in teacher certification requirements in what became known as the Cox School Code.

This 1914 legislation created positions for county and district school superintendents and, for the first time, based teachers' certificates on having a college diploma with required academic and professional courses.

In 1920, when the minimum teacher salary was set at $100 per month, membership surged from 12,000 to 21,309. The Department of Classroom Teachers was formed as its own group, separate from administrators, principals and superintendents in 1924.

By 1930, more than 40,000 classroom teachers, administrators and elementary and high school principals had become OEA members.

It is our time to use the power of our union to restore the love of learning to our classrooms. It's our time to fight for fairness for every educator and every student no matter where they live, who their parents are, what they look like, who they love, or how much money they have. It is our time to fight for the salaries, benefits, respect, and support to attract and retain good people in our professions. It is our time to strengthen our communities and our state by realizing the promise of public education in Ohio.

SCOTT DIMAURO, OEA PRESIDENT

OEA's legal services, school law expertise and consultation programs began in 1954.

OEA's new headquarters building was constructed in 1965 at 225 East Broad Street in Columbus. OEA soon began field operations for local advocacy, political action and negotiations aimed at supporting teachers' rights.

In the 1970s, the average teacher's salary was $8,798. Through successful lobbying at the federal level, an exemption was secured to avert a wage freeze that had the potential to affect all Ohio teachers. The state minimum salary schedule was implemented through extensive lobbying, resulting in salary increases for 37,000 teachers in 486 school districts.

During the 15-year period between Ohio's first strike at Tallmadge in 1966 and the passage of Ohio's Public Employee Collective Bargaining Law in 1983, teachers in every major city in Ohio went on strike, with the peak coming in 1969-70 with 28 walkouts. That same year, superintendents, principals and other administrators left the OEA to form separate organizations.

By the mid-1970s—before any statutory provision for public employee bargaining was enacted—OEA helped win negotiation agreements for local associations in two-thirds of the state's school districts. A 1975 Ohio Supreme Court declared negotiated master agreements and binding arbitration legal and enforceable.

During the 1980s, the Ohio Supreme Court ruled in favor of four cases involving OEA members, establishing legal precedents in areas of fair dismissal and salary credit for teaching experience. The OEA continued to grow when the association extended membership to Ohio's education support professionals (ESPs).

As OEA continued to advocate for school funding in the 1990s, the Ohio Supreme Court affirmed the trial court's decision in DeRolph v State of Ohio, finding that the state had failed to meet its constitutional requirement to fund a "thorough and efficient system of common schools." OEA continued promoting educator standards and public accountability.

Ohio and states across the country, conservative legislators and governors have tightened school budgets. At the same time, education policy makers have instituted higher and higher standards for performance.

Legislators and private businesses continue to chip away at the livelihoods of education support professionals by privatizing school services despite evidence of unexpectedly bad results in everything from school nutrition and health to school transportation services. In higher education, Ohio's policy makers have continued this pattern, short-changing funding for key initiatives while raising student tuition and fees.

As advocates for students and public education, OEA members have responded by voicing support for the reduction of standardized testing and organizing an information campaign to raise public awareness of failing for-profit charter schools in Ohio.

They have created a vision for a high-quality public education for all students, supported grassroots public education advocacy, pledged to end institutional racism and advance inclusivity, and built relationships with labor organizations.

In 2011, OEA member rights were threatened by Senate Bill 5 (SB 5), a proposal to curtail collective bargaining rights for all public employees.

Ohioans agreed with the OEA that SB 5 was unfair, unsafe and hurt people in every Ohio community.

Attacks have continued with restrictions on voter rights and early voting, intrusions into collective bargaining in schools and 'Right to Work' proposals that Ohioans defeated in repealing SB 5.

Challenges to academic freedom, teaching and learning conditions and the economic security of Ohio school employees cannot be met simply by elections, collective bargaining agreements or OEA's power as an organization, but only by a renewed activism and energy among members ready to face the critics and attacks.

The work of OEA members must also continue to involve personal relationships with people in elected and appointed office with whom the OEA can work to get things done for its members and the students they serve.

The value of these relationships is evident in the progress OEA has made on issues ranging from the continuing need to reduce the numbers of tests students take, to revising the teacher evaluation system, to addressing the looming crisis in high school graduation rates, and drawing attention to the dismal performance of charter schools and adverse impact of these charters on local public schools.

The OEA continues to press for high-quality public education, including rigorous academic standards and equitable educational opportunities for all students in Ohio, to defend collective bargaining rights, and to work to preserve the economic security of more than 122,000 members throughout Ohio.

"Because of member efforts and the support of leaders and staff at all levels of the association, OEA is the largest and most powerful labor union in Ohio and the strongest education advocacy organization.

"For OEA to truly become the go-to resource on professional issues, we need to expand our professional development programs and draw on the talents and expertise of our members in leading that work. We need to take our organizing to the next level by supporting locals in cultivating new leaders in every one of our work sites. OEA must also continue growing and strengthening our collective power," OEA President Scott DiMauro.

OEA Leadership Team

Scott DiMauro, a high school social studies teacher from Worthington, was elected President of the OEA in 2019 after having served as vice president for six years. Over his 28-year career as an educator, Scott has worked to provide students the critical thinking and decision-making skills they need to be successful citizens in our democratic society. He has likewise advocated for students, educators and strong public schools at all levels of his union.

Prior to becoming a full-time OEA officer, Scott served for nine years as President of Central OEA/NEA, and has experience as president of his local, as a member of his local bargaining team, chairperson of Central's leadership and professional development programs, and political action coordinator. He also led the NEA Standing Committee on Legislation for three years.

As vice president, Scott served as co-chair of the Healthcare and Pension Advocates for STRS and represented OEA's 122,000 members on a variety of coalition boards and steering committees. He chaired the OEA Legislative Committee and continues to work with OEA's Government Relations staff to represent educators in the legislature and State Board of Education. He was proud to help lead efforts of the OEA Commission on Student Success to lay out a comprehensive vision for high quality education for all students and lay the groundwork for positive implementation of the federal Every Student Succeeds Act in Ohio. He also led an initiative to increase student access to breakfast in high-poverty districts and served as national spokesperson for the Partners for Breakfast in the Classroom.

Scott's priorities as president include strengthening local affiliates, enhancing professional supports for members, and elevating the voice of educators in public policy issues to ensure all students are given access to a high-quality education that inspires their creativity, imagination and desire to learn.

Scott DiMauro

Jeff Wensing

Jeff Wensing, has been a high school math teacher for 26 years with the Parma City Schools. Throughout his teaching career, Jeff has been an advocate and leader, serving as President of the Parma Education Association from 2012-2018 and as President of the North Eastern Ohio Education Association (NEOEA) from 2016-2018.

Jeff has served on OEA's Constitution and Bylaws Committee and President's Cabinet, as Vice Chair of OEA's District Leaders Council, and as a member of the Fiscal Fitness Review Committee and Systemic Practices Committee.

One of Jeff's accomplishments as a local and district leader was organizing members and the community to elect a new Parma Board of Education majority in 2017.

As OEA Vice President, Jeff will continue to emphasize the importance of organizing members throughout the state. He believes the OEA must support locals in order to both maintain and grow membership.

Jeff believes it is critical to listen to members before decisions are made, ensure communication throughout the process, and engage in full transparency. He will focus on the OEA's strategic issues, shared values, and the students members work with each day.

Mark Hill has been a middle school math teacher since 1988 first with Columbus City Schools and is now with Worthington City Schools. Mark served as President of the Worthington Education Association from 2010-2018 and has served as a member of the OEA Board of Directors. Mark served as chair of the OEA Resolutions Committee as well as numerous committees for Central OEA/NEA.

Mark was also elected to serve two four-year terms on the STRS Board from 2010-2018, serving as Chair and Vice Chair of the Board for each of those terms.

Mark's experience in leadership was shaped by the crises of Senate Bill 5 and pension reform. The SB5 attack on collective bargaining took place in Mark's first year as president of Worthington EA, and he led his local association to participate in the statewide repeal effort. In the same year, as the STRS pension fund was facing a solvency crisis, Mark worked with the rest of the STRS board to bring long term sustainability to the pension so that its members could count on a secure retirement.

As Secretary-Treasurer, Mark will continue to advocate for budget priorities that make OEA stronger in changing times. His leadership experience will be critical in developing strategic budgets that put OEA in a position of strength. Mark believes OEA must support its local associations and their leaders because they shape members' impressions of the value of OEA membership.

Mark Hill

Sheryl Mathis

Sheryl Mathis joined the OEA as Executive Director in December 2013.

Sheryl has more than 35 years of professional experience in education. Before coming to Ohio, she was the Executive Director of the Arizona Education Association (AEA) where her leadership brought financial stability to an organization coping with the challenge of membership losses caused by the elimination of payroll deduction.

A native of Texas, Sheryl began her career as a classroom teacher in the Putnam City School District in Oklahoma City, OK.

"I am proud to have been an educator," Sheryl says. "It's given me a valuable perspective on the best ways in which to serve all members of the education association."

Sheryl later served as the President of the Putnam City Association of Classroom Teachers, and as a UniServ Director for the Colorado Education Association. From 1996 to 2007, Sheryl was the Associate Executive Director of the Kansas Education Association.

OEA District Associations

OEA's network of 10 district associations assures that Association decisions are made by representatives from all parts of the state. About two-thirds of the OEA Board of Directors is elected from units within the district associations. The number of units each district has depends on its total number of members. Each district association also has a representative on each OEA committee.

The districts serve as a liaison to the local associations from the OEA, providing professional development opportunities, legislative updates and networking for members.

Each district sends its three officers to the District Leaders Council (DLC) to represent their respective district and share information to and from the OEA. The DLC sponsors the District Leaders Hospitality Night for delegates to the OEA Representative Assembly (RA), an evening FCPE fundraiser during OEA Summer Academy, and a Stay-to-the-End drawing at the NEA-RA.

OEA Board of Directors

The 56-member OEA Board of Directors directs implementation of policies established by the OEA Representative Assembly.

It is headed by the President, Vice President and Secretary-Treasurer.

Thirty-eight of the members of the Board of Directors are classroom teachers and/or Education Support Professionals (ESP) elected to represent constituents in OEA's 10 district associations. Four members are elected At-Large by the Representative Assembly, including an ESP member. OEA's eight members of the NEA Board of Directors are also members of the OEA Board of Directors. In addition, three OEA Divisions—OEA-Retired, the OEA Division of Higher Education and the Ohio Student Education Association—each elect a member to serve on the OEA Board of Directors. Pictured are members of the OEA Board of Directors for 2019–2020.*

**For the start of the 2019-2020 year, there are vacancies for the following positions: Central-3 and NEOEA-9.*

**All information is current as of July 9, 2019.*

OEA Field Office Information

OEA Field is responsible for ensuring that the Association's key professional activities—including collective bargaining, member rights and protection, professional efficacy, local development and training, organizing strategy, information systems and business support/administration—are available to all of its 750 local affiliates.

The OEA has three Service Regions. Each OEA local is assigned to a Service Region that assesses service needs and the adequacy and quality of services; aligns services with OEA's mission, vision, core values and strategic goals; plans annual programs and allocates staff and other resources; and works to ensure the availability of staff to meet identified service needs.

Within these regions, the Association supports 78 Leadership Councils.

Leadership Councils (groups of local associations that each work with a specific OEA field professional) make sure that there is effective, regular communication between the OEA and local affiliates regarding service-related matters. The Leadership Councils also ensure the effective coordination of activities and programs within the council and with other association units.

Attorney Referral Program 2019-2020

During any calendar year (from January 1 to December 31), eligible members, spouses, domestic partners and dependent children are entitled to two, free 30-minute consultation sessions with any of the Association-approved attorneys under the Attorney Referral Program. During the two free sessions, you may discuss any legal matter except income tax preparation. The free consultation allows you to discuss your problems with an attorney to determine whether you need additional legal services. The attorney is not expected to draft or review documents during a consultation. If you ask the attorney to provide additional services, you will be billed at a discounted Program rate.

In addition to free consultations, members may have specific legal work performed in five "core" areas at a 30-percent reduction of participating attorneys' normal fees. The five core areas include real estate, wills and estates, domestic relations, consumer protection (including bankruptcy) and traffic violations. A few legal services, such as help with business dealings or tax matters, do not qualify for the discounted rate. The discounted rate also does not apply to the defense of criminal violations, other than the traffic violations covered by the Program.

For your convenience, participating attorneys are located throughout the state; however, you are not limited to those closest to you.

Why Your OEA Membership Matters

Your membership is buoyed by the power of a collective voice that works to ensure the general good and fulfill the promise of a strong and healthy middle class.

As attacks against unions and public education intensify, our biggest asset is the solidarity of OEA members.

Better pay, wider access to affordable health coverage, safer working conditions and retirement security are just some of the obvious benefits of union membership.

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, for example, has determined that union workers are paid $200 more than the weekly median pay of non-union workers performing the same job. Unionized workers are also 28 percent more likely to be covered by employer-provided health insurance and 54 percent more likely to have employer-provided pensions, according to the Economic Policy Institute.

Yet even more fulfilling is the opportunity to have your voice, your opinion and your values heard, shared and put to work to improve society and pave the way for a better future for generations to come.

OEA members are always there to help their students, schools and communities, volunteering their time, raising money and donating goods to help those in need.

In turn, your union supports your rights on the job, political voice, professional learning and personal and financial well being.

OEA Dues Dollars at Work

Your OEA dues are invested in programs that support a wide variety of benefits to you.

At the state level, your OEA dues dollars provide you the resources to lobby for your interests in the state legislature and to work with statewide coalitions that are helping shape the future for our profession in Ohio.

OEA dues dollars support the UniServ staffing program that provides assistance in bargaining and contract enforcement at the local level.

ESTIMATED NON-DEDUCTIBLE PORTION OF YOUR 2019-2020 OEA DUES

Dues payments are not deductible as charitable contributions for federal income tax purposes. The Tax Cuts and Job Act effective tax year 2018 suspended the previous deduction for job-related expenses or other miscellaneous itemized deductions that exceeded 2 percent of adjusted gross income. This suspension includes unreimbursed employee expenses such as union dues. These expenses are no longer deductible. Therefore, the annual Deductible/Non-Deductible portion of dues publication will not be produced. For further information please see your tax preparer or IRS publication 5307.

ESTIMATED AMOUNT OF YOUR 2019-2020 OEA DUES ALLOCATED FOR POLITICAL AND LOBBYING EXPENSES

Under IRS section 6033(e), OEA is still required to report to members what portion of their membership dues were allocable to political and lobbying activities. The amount of the OEA membership dues attributable to political and lobbying expenses is estimated to be 12 percent. The actual expenses for the 2019 calendar year will be reported in the February 2020 issue of Ohio Schools for all levels of membership.

Delegates at the OEA Spring 2019 RA voted and approved the 2019-2020 OEA budget which includes projected expenditures of the 2019-2020 dues dollars. Your OEA dues dollars are allocated as follows to provide you with the following projected services:

The Value of OEA Membership

With representation at the statehouse, bargaining table and more, your union provides advice and professional advocacy on issues you face as an educator, including working and student learning conditions, evaluation support and contract compliance and enforcement. Your union also offers services to help you and your family, from fair compensation, health care and retirement security, to exclusive discounts at major retailers and on mortgages and car loans.

REPRESENTING YOU BEFORE STATE AGENCIES

OEA represents member concerns before a variety of state boards and agencies, including the State Board of Education, Ohio Department of Education, Educator Standards Board, State Employment Relations Board, Ohio Department of DD, School Employee Health Care Board, and the three retirement systems to which OEA members belong—the State Teachers Retirement System (STRS), the School Employees Retirement System (SERS), and the Public Employees Retirement System (PERS).

PROVIDING YOU LEGAL REPRESENTATION AND LIABILITY PROTECTION

Legal Services

The high cost of hiring an attorney to protect employment rights should not be a deterrent to an OEA member. Each year, the OEA-NEA Legal Services Program provides paid legal representation to members who are forced to take legal action in a matter relating to their job.

If attempts to resolve the situation through administrative procedures fail, an OEA member can contact their OEA Labor Relations Consultant to apply for Legal Services Program assistance. If the application is approved, OEA will assign the case to an attorney in a law firm that specializes in education employee representation.

Examples of cases that may qualify for coverage are contract termination, suspension or non-renewal, continuing contract rights, deprivation of a member's rights, privileges or benefits provided by Ohio education laws, a local master contract, the individual member's contract or the employer's policy; demotion and/or reassignment; salary disputes; leaves of absence and/or reinstatement rights; and certification or licensing matters.

Local associations may qualify for assistance for contract enforcement; State Employment Relations Board representation; services related to bargaining or impasse, including interest arbitration; and for crisis situations, such as a strike or a bargaining election. Local associations also are reimbursed for a majority of the costs of grievance arbitrations and impasse panels.

Liability Protection

If a member is confronted with a lawsuit over something that happens to a student while under the member's supervision, the law says the school board must provide the member legal representation and protect him/her from financial loss. But if the school board threatens to renege on its responsibility, a member can count on the Association for protection.

Through Association membership, a member is entitled to $1 million in employment liability protection plus payment of legal fees if sued in connection with his/her job. (There is a limitation of $3 million per incident in cases where there are multiple member defendants.)

A member is covered for up to $300,000 if charged with violating an individual's civil rights and for up to $35,000 in legal fees if faced with violating a criminal statute as long as the member is found not guilty of the charge or charges are dropped. If the charge results from corporal punishment, the member may be assigned a Legal Services Program attorney at no charge.

In addition, the member receives $1,000 in bail bond protection in the event he/she is jailed in connection with school duties and payment of up to $500 for damages to personal property when caused by an assault by a student in the course of the member's education employment.

BUILDING YOUR ECONOMIC SECURITY

Member Benefits, the economic services arm of NEA, provides association members with a variety of cost-saving opportunities. NEA Member Benefits offers favorable rates in a wide range of areas including credit cards, investments, student loans, car rentals, home mortgages, magazine subscriptions and insurance programs.

In addition, every member who signs up for it automatically receives life and accidental death and dismemberment insurance at no cost through NEA Member Benefits' Dues Tab. The amount of insurance increases for each year of membership in the association. Members can often recoup the entire cost of their dues by participating in one or two Member Benefits programs.

In addition to enjoying financial incentives through NEA Member Benefits, OEA members can save even more by using their membership cards to take advantage of OEA ACCESS.

Check the back of your membership card for simple instructions on registering for the program.

KEEPING YOU INFORMED

OEA and NEA keep members informed about developments in the profession through every-member publications and publications geared toward special interest groups within the association.

OEA members receive Ohio Schools magazine and NEA Today. Ohio Schools provides news and information about education in Ohio, OEA programs and services, as well as classroom tips and resources for members. NEA Today does the same from a national perspective. OEA also publishes electronic newsletters distributed by email to groups of activists and special interest groups.

Members can also use the OEA and NEA websites to keep up-to-date on association developments and education news. OEA's website is www.ohea.org. The NEA website is www.nea.org. Follow OEA on Facebook, www.facebook.com/ohioea, Twitter, www.twitter.com/ohioea, and YouTube, www.youtube.com/ohioea.

OEA also has an app available as a free download for members. To download, use keyword My OEA.

GIVING YOU A VOICE

Representing the welfare and concerns of its members in the state legislature and in Congress is a major function of OEA and NEA.

Many important gains, such as improvements to the Ohio Teacher Evaluation System (OTES), collective bargaining rights for public employees, and sound public school employee retirement systems are a direct result of the association's lobbying efforts. Just as important has been the role of OEA and NEA in preventing the passage of bills that would be harmful to education and education employees.

Both OEA and NEA employ a staff of lobbyists to review the many bills introduced each session that could affect association members. Lobbyists work directly with legislators to present OEA's view on issues. They frequently seek members' "grassroots" support, coming to Columbus to attend hearings or making contact with legislators at home.

TAKING POLITICAL ACTION

Major decisions affecting public education and education employees are made by those elected to public office. For that reason, OEA and NEA screen and recommend candidates for election. The associations also contribute to campaigns of recommended candidates. To comply with election law, money contributed to campaigns must come from political action committees whose funds are not intermingled with those of the Association.

Each year, the OEA Fund for Children and Public Education (FCPE) conducts fund raising campaigns among its members. Twenty percent of the money collected through voluntary contributions is forwarded to the NEA Fund for Children and Public Education. The OEA Fund Council, made up of OEA members, determines how its money will be spent. The NEA Fund does the same, contributing to campaigns in Ohio.

Members can claim a credit against state income tax for contributions made to the campaign committee of candidates for any of the following Ohio offices: Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor of State, Treasurer of State, Attorney General, Ohio Board of Education, Chief Justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, Justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, Ohio Senate and Ohio House of Representatives. Ohio law permits a state income tax credit up to $50 for single filers and $100 for joint filers. Contributions are not tax deductible for federal income tax purposes.

OEA members have a long tradition of effective activism. It starts with understanding that policy decisions affecting educators and the future of public education are made by elected officials at the local, state, and federal levels.

Whether it's rallying crowds, coming to Columbus to lobby legislators, or connecting with them through mail, phone calls, emails, and social media, our member-activists make the case for issues that matter to educators, students, and public schools.

By making contributions to the OEA/NEA Fund for Children and Public Education (FCPE), OEA members ensure that those who advocate for students and support public education, regardless of political party, are elected and retain public office. This year, we are poised to make significant progress on issues of importance to members and the students they serve – from working to repeal Ohio's failed state takeover law, to reducing the testing burden faced by our students, to advocating for a better and more equitable school funding formula. These efforts have been made possible through supporting pro-public education candidates and legislators with FCPE funds.

There are so many ways you can get involved—help make our collective voice stronger!

OEA Collective Bargaining and Research Consultants work with members and staff to help them understand the impact of budgetary changes at individual schools as well as analyzing statewide trends. They provide guidance to staff and local leaders regarding comparisons among districts on health insurance benefits and costs, understanding the impact of different health insurance plan designs on their bargaining unit, best practices in contract language, and the legality of various practices in benefit plan designs.

ORGANIZING FOR STUDENT SUCCESS

Building OEA solidarity member to member

WHAT'S YOUR VISION FOR AN EFFECTIVE LOCAL?

Effective locals empower members to advocate for their students and colleagues. Through the development of aspirational goals and strategic coordination of membership activity, strong locals channel this energy into organizing campaigns that can dramatically improve student learning and the conditions of employment.

OEA's Organizing department assists locals in the long-term development of member activism, advocacy, and commitment. We work with locals to produce long-term strategic plans, deepen relationships with community allies, and activate the educational leaders of tomorrow.

OEA's Organizing Department works with current and new local associations to build capacity in:

Membership Engagement

Help locals develop relational listening campaigns and build power based on organizational needs and professional concerns.

Membership Development Facilitate tailored trainings for your union's specific needs to foster a better understanding of the basic principles of organizing, leadership, and use of collective action and power.

Strategic Planning

The Organizing department has developed an OEA Local Assessment Tool to help locals develop strategies and campaigns to achieve their goals. The department also provides assistance for initial campaign planning assessments.

Community Outreach

Facilitate public, collaborative relationships with educational partners, labor unions, community groups and social justice networks in order to foster solidarity and power.

New Member Organizing (External)

Assist employees without union representation to build strong local associations.

COMMUNITY ORGANIZING

A proactive approach to building community allies with community partners

Many community stakeholders are interested in the same issues you are addressing at your school or workplace: class size, testing, neighborhood and school safety, the unilateral reduction of arts and language classes, the privatization of services, poverty, and the list goes on. You will never be able to build on these shared concerns if you neglect to establish ongoing relationships with community groups to find out how you can best work together. Community allies have access to relationships and sources of power you may not. A focus on community organizing builds power by publicly aligning goals and bringing people together to work for the success of every school and student.

OEA local associations have collaborated with these community partners:

- OEA retirees
- Other unions
- PTA/ PTO
- Environmental groups
- Local business
- Rotary club
- Student groups
- Civil rights groups

- Greek organizations
- Local media
- Colleges/ Universities
- Local politicians

BUILDING MEMBER POWER

OEA's Organizing staff works with locals to do strategic planning, goal setting and team building. Organizing staff are also available to provide assistance and consultation during all phases of local campaigns, including contract negotiations, local elections and issue campaigns. Locals interested in learning more about building member power through this work should contact Organizing staff or talk with their OEA Labor Relations Consultant.

STRENGTHENING RELATIONSHIPS

Restorative Practices is an emerging social science that studies how to build social capital and achieve social discipline through participatory learning and decision-making. Restorative Practices can help to reduce crime, violence and bullying, improve human behavior, and strengthen relationships and social connections between individuals in communities.

Through OEA Organizing's training on Restorative Practices, locals learn to:

- Build relationships, respond to conflict, and explore collaborative problem-solving and conflict resolution using a restorative framework;
- Focus on self-care strategies that restore educators and prepare them to restore others in their school communities;
- Learn how to set high expectations for students and colleagues while being supportive;
- Practice providing direct feedback and asking questions that promote accountability;
- Learn to facilitate restorative circles;
- Discover how circles create positive learning environments;
- Participate in circles with your colleagues, taking turns to learn how to facilitate;
- Learn to build social capital, resolve social problems and respond when harm occurs by developing a restorative lens.

To learn more about Restorative Practices training, contact Organizer Makia Burns.

Ohio's New Educators (ONE)

Each day, Ohio educators implement policy created by those who have never worked a day in education. And each day, educators are told—explicitly and implicitly—that the teaching profession is unimportant. The voice of educators has never been so important as it is today. And the need to support new educators is more critical than ever before.

Ohio's New Educators (ONE) is a community of professionals supporting early career educators that engages and empowers educators to become relevant, active and visible in our profession and communities through collective action.

ONE urges experienced educators to welcome new educators into their lives and their profession to collaborate, grow and share. Reach out and make them feel heard. Say 'yes!' to their ideas. Include them in decision-making in your school and association. When there are opportunities, open doors for them. Share your knowledge. You—and the support you give as experienced educators—are essential to the success of new educators surviving and thriving their first few years in education, which is essential to them staying in the profession and becoming experienced teachers.

Learn more about ONE at www.OHEA.org/ONE.

Ohio's New Educators

We believe empowered educators spark the minds of those who will effect positive change in the world.

Ohio's New Educators (ONE) is a unique community within the Ohio Education Association (OEA) supporting early career educators in their first 10 years of their career. This statewide network engages and empowers educators to become successful, active and visible in their profession and community through collective action.

OHIO EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

It is important for members to connect with Early Career Educators in the workplace because they are the future of our schools and our unions. They need to feel supported and have someone to turn to when they are struggling.

Marissa Platton Teacher (Austintown EA)

Teaching is a collaborative profession and we will continue to thrive if we have supporting communities. Early career educators aren't always going to be the ones to reach out and join those communities because their minds are spinning. ## Share your story: How are you helping to make sure all students succeed?

At a time of transformation in public education, we face many challenges—inadequate funding and resources, implementation of ESSA, school safety, standardized tests, evaluations, privatization, attacks from anti-union and anti-public education forces, and charter schools.

And yet, every day, despite these challenges, OEA members are doing all that we can to make it clear that all students matter.

How are you helping to make sure all students succeed?

More than 122,000 teachers, faculty members and education support professionals are OEA members, so there are at least 122,000 stories to tell.

Share your thoughts and ideas with us! Send a note, idea, illustration or video to newhallj@ohea.org.

We'll share your responses on the pages of Ohio Schools, on the OEA's website, www.ohea.org, and on social media throughout the year.
